The theme for this month is “risk assessment”

All employers have a duty to carry out “suitable and sufficient” or “adequate” risk assessments and record the “significant findings” of their risk assessments if five or more persons are employed.

Risk assessments should be carried out by “competent” persons” who have a knowledge and understanding of the terms hazard, risk, health effect and control measure etc.

Can you find the twelve related words (listed below) in the grid?

Words may run diagonally as well as up, down and across and the same grid letter may appear in more than one word.

In addition to the twelve hidden words there is a common word used in risk assessment hidden within the grid. One lucky reader who finds the phrase and emails it to info@safetynett-uk.co.uk by 30 September will win a bottle of champagne.
